NEW PEACE TREATY OF ENGLAND AND JAPAN

Permanent Peace in the East Assured— The Terms Satisfactory.

London, Sept. 27.—The text of the new agreement between Great Britain and Japan, which was signed by Lord Lansdowne, the British foreign secretary, and Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister to Great Britain, on August 12, was issued by the foreign office last evening. The momentous document is a brief one, comprising less than 800 words, including eight articles and a preamble.

Accompanying the agreement is a letter from Lord Lansdowne to the British ambassador at St. Petersburg and Paris for transmission to the Russian and French governments, respectively, in which the foreign secretary courteously reviews the agreement and carefully points out that the new defensive alliance is not intended as a menace but rather as a guarantee of peace and prosperity in the Far East, in which all countries may participate.

The main features of the new agreement already have been forecasted in the Associated Press dispatches from London and Paris. The plucky articles of the official text, however, bring out forcibly the tremendous importance to both countries of this alliance, which practically makes Great Britain and Japan a unit for the purpose of defense "in the regions of East Asia and India."

This inclusion of India specifically as a point at which any aggression by a foreign power will call for the assistance of Japan, finds much favor with the press of London, the morning papers in long laudatory articles welcoming the new and more extensive alliance of the two insular kingdoms West and East as giving immediate relief from the dangerous thunder cloud which for so many years had hung over the Indian frontier.

Europe's Opinion.

London, Sept. 27.—The opinion in Europe in regard to the new Anglo-Japanese treaty seems to be that it is directed almost entirely at Russia as no other power is likely to come within its scope because it is limited to the Far East and India.

General Satisfaction in Japan.

Tokio, Sept. 27.—The announcement of the terms of the new Anglo-Japanese treaty was received with general satisfaction throughout Japan.

BIG TAX SUIT

Of Auditor's Agent Is On Trial Before Judge Lightfoot.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot is today trying the case of Frank Lucas, auditor's agent, against the Chicago, New Orleans and St. Louis railroad for back taxes for five years on a franchise valued in the petition at $13,000,000.

The prosecution is represented by Attorneys Taylor and Lucas, and the defense by Attorneys Wheeler, Hughes and Berry, assisted by Attorney E. F. Trabee.

Mr. Wm. Tarbel, tax commissioner for the I. C. road, is also in attendance at the trial. The plaintiff is attempting to collect about $150 on the $100. The case will likely be concluded by this afternoon.

THE RED MEN

Will Hold Special Meeting Tomorrow and Regular Meeting Friday.

There will be a special meeting of the Red Men tomorrow night for the purpose of conferring all three degrees on several candidates and receiving applications.

On Friday night the regular meeting will be held when the annual election of officers takes place. Attorney D. A. Cross, acting Great Sachem, will probably be elected to that office, which is the highest in the order.

Nashfulness may sometimes exclude pleasure, but seldom opens any avenue to sorrow or remorse.—Johnson.

Aged Colored Women, Sisters, Meet Here for First Time in Half a Century

Harriett and Mary Stovall, colored, aged 68 and 78 respectively, who had been separated for the past 50 years, each thinking the other dead met last night and the rejoicing could be heard for blocks around. The strange part of the meeting is that both women have for years been residing within a few miles of each other and have been in the same town weekly, and never until chance happened to throw them together, met or received any word such as to the whereabouts of the other.

The meeting was brought about by accident. The Stovalls were born in slavery and took the name of their master, Stovall. When one of the Stovall daughters married Joseph Mason, Harriett, the colored slave, was given over to the daughter as a wedding present. The other sister, Mary Stovall colored, married a man named Hoggold and came to this county. The separation occurred over 50 years ago and neither sister heard of the other until this week.

Harriett Stovall removed to Illinois and took the name of Mason. She has been residing in Illinois a few miles from Paducah and comes to the city weekly with eggs, butter and poultry to sell. John Matthews, colored porter at the Palmer house, while conversing with his wife about her relatives was surprised to learn that her first husband was a brother to Mary Hoggold, one of the two sisters, who resides a few doors from Matthews. An investigation developed the fact that the Illinois woman was a sister of the Hoggold woman, and a meeting was arranged at the latter's house on South Seventh street last night.

The Illinois sister will remain in Paducah on a week's visit. It is said that this is one of the strangest coincidences on record.

The city was in darkness when the dispatch was sent, and all street traffic was suspended. It was believed that shipping in the bay had warning of the approach of the storm, but up to the time the dispatch was sent, the ships were invisible on account of the rain and had not communicated with the shore.

Manila, Sept. 27.—A typhoon swept over this city yesterday (Tuesday) which lasted three hours and at 2 p. m. the wind attained a velocity of 105 miles an hour.

TAKES NO STOCK IN TALK OF TAINT

Chicago Minister Says He Wants
All He Can Get.

Says Talk of "Tainted Money" Is Almost Criminal—Blesses the Givers.

RICH FOOLS NOT THE ONLY ONES

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 27.—The Rev. Dr. William Leach, of the Fulton M. E. church made a spirited defense of the use of "tainted" money for religious purposes, calling down the blessing of heaven upon rich men who distribute soiled wealth.

He expressed his regrets at not being possessed of money gathering talent, and declared that it takes a wise man to acquire wealth.

"The rich are not all fools, nor all fools rich," he said. "The world has whole brigades of fools poor, if not poorer, than 'Job's turkey.' It takes a wise man to be rich.

"Riches, as a rule, when acquired have wisdom and prudence as a foundation. I have no contention with a rich man; I am sorry my gifts were not toward money making. I make riches, but not money.

"The disappointed sneer at riches and would deride rich men. I say God bless them and make them ten times richer, if they use their wealth for men as the majority of our rich men are doing.

"The cry of 'tainted' money is almost criminal. I will use no devilish means to make money for God, but I will take all the money I can get from the devil and put it into Godly work. It is no longer tainted when touched by heavenly hands. I would like to turn the Devil's barracks into Christian bulwarks.

"There are more poor fools than rich ones. Men are poor because they have wasted God's fatness on their sins. It takes wisdom to save."

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST PADUCAH MAN.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 27.—A special to the Times from Madison, Ind., received at 1 o'clock says: "Harry Thompson, of Paducah, Ky., brutally raped Mrs. James Porter at Craig, Switzerland county, last night and escaped. Officers are after him."

The city directories show only one Harry Thompson, a plumber, and he went to Dyersburg, Tenn., several months ago, and is now living there. It is not believed the man mentioned above lives here.

HONOR FOR BOOTH.

Freedom of City of London to Be Conferred on a Salvationist.

London, Sept. 27.—The corporation of the City of London today unanimously resolved to confer the freedom of the city on Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, in recognition of his great work for the moral and social elevation of the people.

This is regarded as a unique recognition by the city, which is accustomed to bestow the freedom only on members of royal families, military and naval peoples or statesmen of marked pre-eminence.

LEAVE TODAY.

Consulting Engineers Will Go to Panama This Evening.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The foreign members of the board of consulting engineers, of the Isthmian Canal commission, left this city for Boston, where they will today be joined by other members of the board to inspect the Wachusett Dam near that city.

This evening they will return to New York and from that city will sail at once for the isthmus on the steamer Havana.

The party expects to stay on the isthmus for about a week, making daily trips along the canal and returning at night to the ship which will sail out to anchor in the open sea to escape possible danger of yellow fever.

Nuns are Stricken.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—With three successive small lists of new cases, it begins again to look as though the situation was improving. A group of four cases among the nuns in the convent of Perpetual Adoration on Marais street was reported by the attending physicians. The country report was meagre and indicated no new points of infection.

Improvement at Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 27.—The yellow fever situation here shows improvement. During the 24 hours ending at 6 p. m. two deaths and eight new cases were reported yesterday.

Tighter at Cairo.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 27.—The Illinois state board of health gave final notice yesterday that there would be no temporizing in the future with those who undertook to violate in the slightest degree the quarantine regulations. The quarantine lines were reinforced in every way and inspectors were directed to adhere to regulations regardless of where the pressure fell. As a result of the adoption of more stringent measures two important transportation lines were caught in the net and steps were taken to close tightly several leaks which have been watched carefully for sometime past.

Hounded to Death.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 27.—A horrible story of the death of a Louisville man who was traveling for a St. Louis house was received here from Bastrop, La. According to the few details which have reached here the man, Henry Houseworth, was hounded from one place to another by the quarantine guards and was refused food and water by the people of the section through which he passed. He continued his trip as far as he was able, but as he made no secret of the fact that he had stopped for several days at infected points, he was not allowed to board the trains, and was compelled to walk from one town to another. After a week's trip under such conditions of hardships and starvation the dead body of the man was found near the railroad station at Jones, La.

The people in the vicinity of the place where the man was found do not show the least compunction for the manner in which he was driven from place to place, and say since it was a struggle for self-preservation on both sides they are not more to blame for throwing him out of one place after another than he was for trying to enter the various towns after being at infected points.

Baron Komura Sails.

New York, Sept. 27.—Baron Komura left for Japan today accompanied by Baron Raneko and I. Sato. They were given a hearty send off at the hotel and railway station.

THE PRESIDENT TO DISCUSS INSURANCE

In His Coming Annual Message to Congress.

Many Matters of General Interest
Will Be Treated in the Proclamation Under Way.

PRESIDENT LEAVES SATURDAY

Oyster Bay, Sept. 27.—Federal regulation and supervision of life insurance companies will be fully discussed by the president in his annual message to congress. He has already begun the collection of data upon the subjects which he will discuss in the message, and in some instances has practically completed these sections.

Those in the confidence of the president expect to see him take a decided stand in the matter of life insurance. He is relying largely in this matter on Paul Morton, of the Equitable, but is receiving advice and suggestions from many other sources.

Since the settlement of the Russian-Japanese war, the president has been devoting himself daily to preparing his message to congress. While this message cannot be completed this early, much of it can be put in shape for such additional information as may be furnished by the cabinet officers at Washington.

The message will contain matter relating to the interest of this government in the affairs of Santo Domingo and Venezuela.

The president intends to spend his last week at Sagamore Hill revising the data he has collected. He will receive no visitors during this week except by special appointment, and appointments will be made only where the business is of so urgent a character that it cannot be postponed.

The president and his family will leave here to return to the White House at Washington on Saturday, Sept. 30.

The party, consisting of the president, his family and the members of the executive staff, will leave on a special Long Island train at 11 o'clock in the morning. From Long Island City the party will be taken to Jersey City by boat, and will travel to Washington over the Pennsylvania road, arriving about 6 o'clock in the evening.

The president's neighbors here are planning to give him a good sendoff when he leaves. Audley avenue and East Main street will be decorated with bunting and all residents along the way have been asked to decorate their homes.

The school children of the village will gather near the railroad station to bid the president good bye.

ALL STEAMBOATS

Will Be Subjected to a General Inspection.

Washington, Sept. 27.—An inspection of all steamers in the United States was ordered today by the department of commerce and labor in a letter which Secretary Metcalf directed to George Uhler, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service. No general inspection has been had since the revision of rules made in May to harmonize them with laws passed by the last congress following the Gen. Slocum disaster at New York.

Paredes and one of his assistants were killed and about $5,000 were secured. The other assistants escaped into Hosterpaquillo with about $1,000 of the money.

He reported that at least 12 men were engaged in the hold-up. Paredes' body was literally riddled with bullets. The other Mexican killed was shot five times.

He has appealed his case to the supreme court of Nicaragua.

NOW A HAIR-DRESSER

Is Emma Goldman, the Advocate of Anarchy in New York.

New York, Sept. 27.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist and advocate of free love, who has often addressed big meetings, is now leading the humdrum life of a ladies' hair-dresser.

Under an assumed name, this devotee of anarchy has opened rooms on Broadway, in the heart of the shopping district.

Short, stocky, her light hair parted and tied in a tight knot at the back of her head, wearing heeled shoes and plain garb, she is as like the ordinary hair-dressers as the "new woman" is like a Broadway show-girl.

She first became a nurse, but believing that nurses should work for charity, and rousing suspicions as to her identity by her vigorous utterances on the subject, she was forced to leave the profession.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Robert Hanners, a baker, 24 years of age, walked into the county hospital last evening and announced to the physician that two years ago he swallowed a lead pencil and that it was now troubling him. The physicians say Hanners will recover in a short time.

The riot was deliberately planned, and the men hurt are Armenians who had taken strikers' positions.

Friday Evening at Sunset the Jewish New Year Celebration Will Begin

Friday evening at sunset, which is the first day of the month Tishri, which is the seventh month of the Jewish calendar, will be the first day of the Jewish year. It is the "Rosh Hashanah," or the time of horn blowing.

For more than three thousand years the new year observance has been a holy occasion with the Jews. The Jew takes his new year earnestly, and goes to the temple, where he prays for the blessing of God upon his family and his people. And there is a blowing of horns. With many Jews the celebration is of two days' duration. With others it is of a single day.

To the Jews the celebration is not a matter of choice or involuntary custom, as is the new year of the new year of the Gentile world. It is an explicit command and law of the Old Testament Scriptures, found in Numbers, 29:1: "And in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, ye shall have a holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work; it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you."

And again, in Leviticus, 23:23-24, the same command is found: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall ye have a Sabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation."

This command was delivered direct from God in or about the year 1500 B. C., or 3,405 years ago. That was shortly after the children of Israel had been led out from the bondage of Egypt by Moses, and that command has been observed without cessation by the hundreds of generations of Jews to this day.

The business houses of Jewish citizens will be closed after 6 p. m. Friday until 6 p. m. Saturday, and there will be services at Temple Israel Friday evening.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ARE INDIGNANT

At Effort of News-Democrat to Inspire Fear and Alarm.

Among Parents in Paducah and Cause Them to Take Children
From School.

THERE IS NO DANGER TO THEM

The school authorities are very much aroused over the attempt of the News-Democrat through ignorance or otherwise, to effect the closing of one or more schools on account of an alleged epidemic of scarlet fever and cause needless and injurious fear and alarm among parents of school children. The reports of the conditions are grossly exaggerated and the school authorities desire to assure the general public that the schools are safe and that every protection will be afforded pupils sent to school.

"I can not see that there is the least danger of a spread of scarlet fever in Paducah," a well known school official stated this morning. "There are but three cases of scarlet fever in Paducah among school children so far as known, and I have been informed that all during the summer there have been scattered cases of it in the city. Yesterday Drs. C. H. Brothers and H. P. Sights, a committee from the board of health, visited the Washington school and held a conference with the superintendent relative to the conditions. The superintendent asked the doctors if they thought it advisable to close the school or any other school and they replied that they did not. 'Keep them going,' was the reply, 'because there is little danger of a spread even if the fever developed in the schools, which is doubtful.'"

The committee, however, suggested that the buildings all be thoroughly fumigated and the matter will be placed before the school board at once, the superintendent intending to bring it before the members individually without the necessity of a special meeting.

The superintendent and other officials have been keeping a minute record of all matters pertaining to the health of the pupils and proper sanitation in the schools, and it is probable that spray and disinfectant apparatus will be secured for weekly application in the schools. This is done in other schools and will probably be ordered by the board at the next meeting Tuesday night, the 3rd of October.

As a result of the agitation worked up by yellow journal reports, a number of people have unnecessarily taken their children out of school. This morning it developed that Ivy Beck, of 717 South Ninth street, had scarlet fever. He had been out of school since Friday at noon and did not develop a sore throat until Monday morning. This morning it was announced he had scarlet fever.

Among the old landmarks to be razed in past years, none was more prolific of historic associations than is the old house at Fourth and Monroe streets, which is being torn down to make room for a flat to be erected by Mrs. J. M. Buckner.

This house was first known as the Grimes homestead, and later as the Murrell place. It was built in 1852, and some of the most prominent people in Kentucky have been entertained there. It was built by Mrs. O. W. Grimes, and it was there that Gen. John C. Breckinridge ate his last supper before joining the Confederacy. Many of the Clays, Breckinridges, Gen. Tilgeman, and scores of other prominent Kentuckians now dead, have enjoyed the hospitality dispensed under its roof, and many citizens have seen the destruction of the old homestead with feelings of genuine regret.

In later years it was occupied by the Murrell and the Buckner families, and it has been learned in demolishing it that as were most of the houses of that time, it was very substantial, and could have stood many years longer.

The nice increase in our business since the first of the year is very encouraging to us.

GRIP'S UGLY SEQUEL

KNEES STIFF—HANDS HELP-LESS—RHEUMATISM NEAR HEART.

Mrs. Cunningham Experiences Dangerous After-Effects From Grip and Learns Value of a Blood Remedy.

The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and oversensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption.

The story told by scores of victims of the grip is substantially the same. One was tortured by terrible pains at the base of the skull, another was left tired, faint and in every way wretched from anaemia or scantiness of blood; another had horrible headaches, was nervous and couldn't sleep; another was left with weak lungs, difficulty in breathing and acute neuralgia. In every case relief was sought in vain until the great blood builder and nerve tonic, Payne's New Discovery, was used. For quickness and thoroughness of action nothing is known that will approach it.

Mrs. Cunningham makes a statement that supports this claim. She says:

"I had a severe attack of grip and before I had fully recovered rheumatism set in and tormented me for three months. I was in a badly run-down state. Soon after it began I was so lame for a week that I could hardly walk. I kept growing steadily worse, and at last I had to give up completely, and for three weeks I was obliged to keep my bed. My knees were so stiff I couldn't bend them and my hands were perfectly helpless. Then the pains began to threaten my heart and thoroughly alarmed me."

"While I was suffering in this way a friend told me about the merits of Payne's New Discovery and the assistant remedy, Quick Relief. The statements impressed me and led me to buy a supply."

"After I commenced using them the results were almost instantaneous. I began improving so rapidly ever since that I already feel like a new person. I know that, thanks to Payne's New Discovery and Quick Relief, I will soon be completely cured."

Payne will be pleased to talk with all who may call on him at Smith & Nagel's drug store, corner Fourth and Broadway. He can be seen daily between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

RIVER NEWS

The Cincinnati Enquirer says:

"There was another good-sized crowd out at the Casino last night to enjoy the Wills Musical Comedy company in their clever musical absurdity, 'Atlantic City.' The company seems to be growing in popularity and are greeted most enthusiastically at every performance. The crowds that have attended, despite the weather, have been the best evidence that could be offered of the pleasure their performance is giving. The bill will be changed for tonight and they will present for the balance of the week and Saturday matinee the comedy made famous by the Wills brothers 'Two Old Cronies.' This is constructed for laughing purposes only, as they advertise 'If you can't laugh don't come.' It is a roar from start to finish and will doubtless draw a big crowd. Saturday night after the performance there will be a display of fireworks that will be well worth seeing and will be absolutely free. The display will be larger and better than those given previously."

The above company will play a two-nights engagement at The Kentucky Friday and Saturday, with matinee Saturday.

THE MERCHANTS

Adopt Louisville Plan in Modified Form and Appoint Committee.

The Retail Merchants' Association last night heard a report from its committee relative to drawing outside trade to Paducah, and adopted a plan which it is believed will prove a success.

It was decided to refund the fare of every purchaser of $30 or over worth of goods who comes from within a radius of 75 miles. There will be no rebate, however, for purchases of over $30. The offer will stand from the middle of October until Christmas.

A committee on advertising was appointed as follows: Messrs. H. C. Rhodes, Jake Wallerstein and James A. Rudy.

Christians Meet at Maysville.

The Christian church state convention convened yesterday at Maysville and will last four days. It met in Maysville when its present church was finished in 1876, and again in Maysville when the Rev. Straight Talk to Women.

Why Women Fear to Grow Old

They Think They Will Lose all That is Worth Living for—But the CONTRARY is True.

The fear of growing old and of losing their good looks, is a bogey man that is very real to most women.

Just WHY woman worries so much about her age is hard to guess, for mere youth or beauty does not bring women a monopoly of the good things of life. It's not the best-looking women that get the best husbands, or the happiest homes.

Men may admire beautiful women, but seldom marry them—and after marriage DEEDS, not looks, are what keep a husband's affection.

Beauty in business is rather a drawback than otherwise—nor is it by any means a passport to other women's good will.

In fact, beauty in itself goes for very little, as an aid to success or happiness in a woman's life, be she married or single.

What a husband needs, is a well-SEXED woman—a woman with health, strength, capacity for sharing with him, in a womanly way, life's duties, responsibilities and enjoyments.

The best wife is a good chum or companion, and, in the right wife, before age and beauty comes HEALTH, for in the power and beauty of superb womanhood, man finds his best mate.

A well-sexed woman wins success, also—in business, literary or social life—where the weak-sexed one fails.

What is YOUR chance for success or happiness, in married or other spheres of life? Are you a victim to any of the many forms of disease peculiar to women, which prevents you from tasting to the full the enjoyment and happiness that is due you? If so, cure yourself.

It can be done at home, by simple, safe and reliable means—by taking Wine of Cardui, the successful tonic medicine for sick women.

The important thing for you to do, is not so much to keep yourself young, as well. Every period of life carries with it a full measure of enjoyment and happiness, for the healthy, sensible woman.

If you are not in perfect health, our advice to you is to begin to take Cardui at once. It is a safe, vegetable medicine, which restores health to the female organs and system, by regulating irregular functions, and vitalizing the worn-out nerves. It will make you well.

Cardui relieves periodical pain, pulls up falling womb, and builds up health-tonicity. Over a thousand women a month testify to its curative powers. Are they all mistaken?

Try Cardui today. All druggists sell it in $1.00 bottles, with full directions for use.

For special directions for your case, write us a letter, in strictest confidence, stating age and frankly describing all your troubles. We will send valuable advice, in plain, sealed envelope, free. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

WILL PIPE NATURAL GAS.

Col. John R. Allen at Head of Company and Purchases Franchise.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 27.—Franchises for laying and maintaining mains and pipes for natural gas were sold to the highest bidder here by Mayor T. A. Combs. The purchaser was Col. John R. Allen, who paid $251 for the rights. Col. Allen proposes to organize a company with a capital stock of $500,000 to bring natural gas to Lexington from the gas fields of Elliott county. Associated with him in the enterprise are Judge James H. Hazelrigg, of Frankfort; the Hon. M. C. Alford, and County Judge E. A. Bullock, of Lexington. The franchise call for the completion of the laying of the pipes by the 1st day of July, 1906, and the purchasers of the franchise are required to execute bond in the sum of $10,000.

Carnival Men Under Arrest at Belleville Not Guilty.

Two men employed by the Parker Amusement company, who gave their names as Harry Thompson and Chas. Wilgeron, were taken into custody at Belleville, charged with inducing the 16-year-old daughter of Gus Gass to accompany them with the show, says yesterday's Globe Democrat.

Chief Webgen found the girl on the train shortly before the company left Belleville and sent word to her home. Gass informed the chief that he would appear against the men. Up to 2 o'clock yesterday Gass had not appeared, and the men were released late in the afternoon.

They claimed that the girl joined them of her own free will.

GRAVE CHARGES MADE BY GEN. HAYS

Says There is Too Much "Outside" Interference.

Says That Certain Attorneys Would Not Hesitate to Sign His Name to Official Papers.

COURT RECOGNIZES GEN. HAYS

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 27.—A clash between Attorney General N. B. Hays and Eli Brown, of the firm of McQuown & Brown, as to proceedings in the national bank tax case, was the feature of the opening session of the federal court here.

The question in these cases is whether the amount of funds of the national banks invested in government bonds shall be deducted by the state board of valuation and assessment from their total capital to arrive at the value of the shares of stock for the purpose of taxation.

The crisis came when both Attorney General Hays and the Hon. Eli Brown appeared for the state board of valuation and assessment and the auditor, Auditor Hager and the board had employed Mr. Brown and Lewis McQuown to prosecute the suits, but Attorney General Hays resented that he characterizes as outside interference with the duties of his office, and when the papers were presented to Judge Cochran he moved that his be received as the true documents in the case, and those submitted by Brown and McQuown ruled out. Mr. Brown, in reply, requested that the papers be accepted which bore the verification of the state auditor.

Attorney General Hays resented this suggestion with warmth, declaring that he was unable to obtain the co-operation of many officials in the discharge of his duties as attorney general.

Judge Cochran offered to hear Mr. Brown upon the question of verification, but the latter asked for time until Mr. McQuown, who has had charge of the cases, shall arrive here from Bowling Green. In the meantime, said Judge Cochran, he would be inclined to accept the attorney general as the proper representative of the state officials in the actions at law.

NEED OF RAIN

IS NOW BEING FELT ALL OVER MCCRACKEN COUNTY.

The City Using Many Gallons of Water On the Newly Repaired Streets.

This section is very badly in need of rain. The streets in Paducah are so dusty that in places the dust is several inches deep and traffic fills the air with it.

Farmers say that the county roads are worse than they have been in many months. A heavy rain would be a blessing just now, but would for a short time render the county roads very muddy.

The dust at the carnival grounds is fearful and when the grounds are alive with people moving all the time it is almost stifling. The patrons should not wear good clothes for they are likely to be ruined.

The city has all the sprinklers it can get in use on the streets repaired recently, to keep them from being ground into dust. It is watering these streets all over the city and thus preserving the gravel.

ROCKPORT WILL WIN.

This Town Will Capture the Prize for the Prettiest Lawn.

Mr. William Kellar, gardener for the Louisville division of the I. C., is in Paducah today on business and has just completed an inspection of the division in company with Mr. G. F. Moulder, chief gardener of the entire system.

"Paducah will not capture the prize for the prettiest and best kept lawn on the division this season," Mr. Kellar stated at the depot this morning, "as the chief gardener and I have decided that Rockport has the best lawn on the division. Paducah has carried off the honors of the whole system for several consecutive years but it seems that other gardeners on the divisions have awakened from their slumbers and have also been trying for the prize."

"I do not know who will get the premium for the entire system, but think that Rockport stands the best chance, and am sorry that Paducah fell down this season. Mr. McLaughlin, who tends to the local lawns and flower beds, has done good work." The matter of awarding the premium for the best kept lawn on the system is a hard nut to crack and before any definite decision is reached, several inspections are made. On the first inspection it was stated that Paducah would get the premium but it seems that the Rockport gardener got a hustle on himself and will now carry off the laurels. Rockport is a small station on the Louisville division of the road about 118 miles this side of Louisville.

GENERALLY GOOD CROP CONDITIONS

Too Much Rain in Some Places and Too Little in Others.

An Average Crop Is the Rule—Tobacco Shows Up About the Same As Heretofore.

LAST KENTUCKY REPORT TODAY

Washington, Sept. 27.—The weather bureau in its weekly bulletin summarizes the crop condition as follows:

The temperature during the week ending September 25 was favorably throughout the country, being nearly everywhere above the normal. Rains caused some damage in portions of the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, while a considerable part of the South Atlantic and Gulf States is in need of rain. Damaging frosts occurred in the Middle Rocky mountain regions, and light frosts with little or no injury in portions of the lower lake region and interior of the Middle Atlantic States.

Except in limited portions of the Missouri valley, corn has experienced a week of conditions highly favorable for maturing the crop, from 75 to 90 per cent of which is now safe from frost; the remainder will require only about a week of favorable weather. In Nebraska considerable corn has been blown by high winds, but this will only make harvesting more difficult, without reducing the yield. Some corn in shock in Missouri and Kansas has been damaged by moisture, due largely to rains of the previous week.

The threshing of spring wheat in the Dakotas and Minnesota was interrupted by rains during the first of the week, but shock threshing and stacking are not yet finished. In Dakotas the yield and quality are variable and generally disappointing. The reports indicate but little change in the condition of cotton in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Oklahoma and Indian Territories, a slight improvement in North Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Northeast Texas, and more or less deterioration in other portions of the cotton belt, although there is decidedly less complaint of rust and shedding in the Central and in portions of the Eastern districts. Picking in Texas was interrupted to some extent by rain, but this work has been active under generally favorable conditions in all districts, except the North Central portion of the belt, where it is not general. Picking is nearing completion in portions of Georgia, Louisiana and extreme Southern Texas.

Some injury to housed tobacco by moist weather is reported from portions of the Middle Atlantic states and New England, but elsewhere the reports respecting this crop are favorable.

No improvement in the apple outlook is indicated, an inferior crop being reported from practically all the important apple producing states.

A poor crop of potatoes is generally indicated. Except in the East Gulf states, where the soil has been too dry for plowing, this work is unusually well advanced. Much seedling has been done, and the early season is coming up to good stands throughout the Central valleys and Middle Atlantic states.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.
The people of Paducah may rest assured that as long as a school is open, it is safe to allow the children to attend it.

The board of education, health authorities, superintendent of the schools and teachers have the health and welfare of the children at heart
as much as anyone.

They are in a better position to judge of existing conditions than outsiders, and will take prompt steps
for the protection of the school children.

When it becomes advisable or necessary to close a school, it will be closed. As long as a school is open,
it is perfectly safe to send the children to it.

Do not be deceived by scare headlines and misleading reports. This is only one way some newspapers have of attracting attention when they can't do it any other way.

POLITICS, THE SCHOOLS AND SOME OTHER THINGS.
Sometimes you can tell how hard
a fellow has been hit by the amount of noise he makes. The other day
The Sun said "an effort is becoming apparent to make the reported un-sanitary condition of some of the public schools a political matter." No reference was made to any particular person or thing, but the other local papers quickly took it up and denied they had any intention of making it a political matter. We are willing to take their word for it, and are glad they didn't.

Our metropolitan contemporary around on Fourth street becomes real frantic, however, and our one regret is that it should have been aroused to such a dangerous condition of mind.

All The Sun would ask is that the board of education and superintendent of the schools be given a square deal in their laudable work and not be censured where they are not to blame. If any of the schools was un-sanitary and the fact was not reported to the superintendent or the board, which was the case in this instance, we suppose that it was not politics, but mendacity or ignorance which evoked this remark from the

News-Democrat on Saturday in connection with alleged conditions at the schools:

"The board of education probably will die when the people go to the polls in November. Let the new board then elected have a care."

Or this one in the same issue about
the superintendent of the schools:

"If the superintendent of public schools had exercised proper care
and diligence, that condition could never have obtained."

To be plain, there was never any occasion for all the publicity given the schools in this affair. It was found by a board of health that has allowed the whole city to be filthy
and unsanitary during the summer,
that unsanitary conditions existed at
two of the schools.

The News-Democrat says of this:

"The city health officer, according to the president of the board of education, in the forenoon found the sanitary condition of Longfellow school to be 'satisfactory.' In the afternoon of the same day a committee of the board of education found that the sanitation needed attention, although not as badly as reported." Which authority knows what it is talking about?

The above indicates that at least conditions were such that there was some doubt in regard to how bad they really were. And whatever the conditions, the person directly to blame was a janitor who didn't know enough to report them to the proper authorities. The school board and superintendent acted as soon as they were apprised of conditions. Yet yellow journalism would still attempt to frighten parents into disorganizing
the schools by keeping their children
at home through exaggerated
reports of conditions, and only yesterday the News-Democrat had scare headlines, "LEE SCHOOL IN-FECTED BY SCARLET FEVER,"

with nothing to support this premeditated effort to inspire the people with needless fear, and cause them
to keep their children out of school,
except the fact that several days ago
a little girl in one of the rooms became ill and developed scarlet fever.
Her doctor is quoted in the same article thus:

"Dr. Reddick says that there is little danger of contagion from the disease in its first stages and the little girl being at school before the case was fully developed would not have endangered the rest of the school to any great extent."

Yet this one case in one room is seized upon as a pretext for saying the whole school is "infected."

The Sun is of the opinion that if any alarming conditions existed, the schools affected would be promptly closed as a precaution. In the absence of the necessity for any such precaution, we do not believe a whole city should be thrown into a panic and the public school system impaired, simply for the sake of an egotistical effort to display headlines and give a newspaper the appearance of containing news that is not news.

We are perfectly willing for our contemporary, the Afternoon Effort, to take a shot at us anytime it desires, however, for it is a ludicrously bad as well as a harmless shot, and usually gets the hot end of every proposition it tackles.

The mayor, city administration,
board of public works, board of health, police chief, police commissioners, police department and pretty much everything else have been its target, and we find they are all still doing business at the same old places—as we hope to be doing after it has used up its ammunition on us.

CAPT. FARLEY QUOTED.
It is pleasing to note that Captain Ed Farley's prestige is such as to entitle him to black type and a border in a Democratic journal. He is quoted in the News-Democrat as
"denouncing" The Sun thus:

"There is absolutely no politics injected into the proceedings of our school board, and there never should be. The upbuilding of the schools and the care and welfare of our children,

alone should be and is the aim and effort of the school board."

There certainly is no politics in the proceedings of the board and we hope there never will be. We do not know who would have the effrontery to say that there was, unless it be a Democrat. We have always contemplated there was no politics in the school board so far as Republicans are concerned.

The part of the interview that entitled Capt. Farley to "black caps," however, was this:

"I think any newspaper is doing good service whenever it calls attention to any omission, neglect or oversight on the part of the school board, to do all that can be done for the welfare of the schools and the children. I assure you the school board has taken no offense at what was said in your paper."

We also indorse that. The News-
Democrat, however, it was too modest to explain, has not called attention to any "omission, neglect, or
oversight on the part of the school board." There has been none. The school board, however, "takes no offense." Nobody does to anything our contemporary says.

But that is how Capt. Farley "denounced" The Sun.

Although the city's lawyer says
the contract for reconstructing certain streets is invalid, both the legislative boards have persistently ordered work to proceed under it, and have refused to allow a postponement until spring. Furthermore the city is allowing subcontractors to tear
up the streets for storm water sewers and the brick portion of the paving. If the contract is void, suppose these subcontractors under orders from the contractors, were to stop work where it is? Kentucky avenue for three or four blocks has nearly all the gravel removed from it, and is in a fearful state. Suppose this work stops here, as it should if the contract is void?

Having vainly tried to break up
the police department and about everything else in Paducah, the News-Democrat is now trying to break up the schools by frightening people into keeping their children at home.

LOCATED AT LAST.
Arrested in Illinois For the Murder of Jim Tucker.

Dyersburg, Tenn., Sept. 27.—Sheriff Allen C. Dunlap of this county received a telegram from Vienna,
Ill., at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon,
stating that the officers at that place had apprehended and placed under arrest Jim Satterfield, who disappeared from this county about the same time that G. W. Raspberry left Satterfield worked for Raspberry, and it is supposed that he knows something of the killing of Jim Tucker, whose body was found half buried in the Obion bottoms. It was learned that Satterfield had relatives in Illinois, and it was supposed that he would go to them after leaving here.
Officers at Vienna were warned to be on the lookout for Satterfield, whose description was furnished them. Mr.
Dunlap will leave tonight for Vienna or will send one of his deputies to bring Satterfield back home, and if Satterfield agrees to come without a requisition they will be back here tomorrow night.

Mr. Jeff J. Read, who is promot-

stated that he did not have anything
new to give out regarding the project just now, but believes that the road will be built.

The people along the proposed route are very anxious for the road and many have signed their willingness to donate both rights-of-way and cash, the people of Union City alone guaranteeing $100,000.

THE CITY ALLOWS WORK TO PROCEED

No Effort to Stop Tearing Up of Streets.

Although the City Solicitor Reports
That the Street Contract is Invalid

RECALLS BOND REPUDIATION.

The work of tearing up Kentucky avenue from First to Fifth street, is being allowed by the city to proceed, uninterrupted, despite the claim of the city solicitor that the contract is void because of a technicality. A large force of men is at work, and deep ditches were first excavated for the storm water sewers, and the gravel
has been skinned off the whole street from gutter to gutter to a considerable depth for the concrete foundation and brick paving.

The streets belong to the city and the people, and the city's allowing them to be torn up without a single objection, makes the city liable for the cost of the work, it is claimed by some.

"What is the objection to bitulithic material?" President G. R. Davis, of the board of aldermen was asked today.

"Well," he replied, "the only objection that I know of is on account of the Broadway job. Mr. Ingram, president of the company, knows that it is a bad job, and frankly admits it is, and says it is because he was forced to undertake it in cold weather. The city has never been asked to accept or pay a dollar on the street and has not accepted or paid a dollar on it, and Mr. Ingram says it will not until he gives the city a first-class job, which he intends to do if he has to tear up the work and do it over from Fifth to Ninth streets.

"As near as the boards have been able to learn from trips to other cities and inquiries from officials in other places, bitulithic is as good material for the money as can be found,
and has advantages that neither brick nor asphalt possesses. I think in view of what information we have from other cities, and the fact that the contractors admit Broadway is not a good job, that the people should not take the Broadway work as a sample,
and try to judge bitulithic by it."

Alderman Davis, in response to a question why the city was allowing the work on Kentucky avenue to proceed if the contract is void, replied
"That's just what I was wondering."

It does not seem to be generally believed that the contract is void or will be held void, as the city made it in good faith, its representatives signed it, allowed the streets to be torn up under its provisions, and the city has never attempted to stop work under it.

It is possible that a few technical points of the law have been overlooked, but the courts do not always decide cases on technicalities, but often do it on common sense, reason and fairness.

This was demonstrated in the case of the city railroad bonds. The law was not strictly adhered to in voting the bonds. This was plain. The city issued the bonds, however, got the railroad, and paid interest on the bonds for ten years. A democratic administration and council then attempted to repudiate the bonds on a technicality, and the federal court decided that technicality or no technicality, the city received the benefits for which the bonds were voted,
paid the interest, and could not escape its own part of the liability.
The city in the end had to pay the defaulted interest as well as compound interest, and the public had not yet ceased to feel the effects of it.
The present city solicitor is a member of one of the firms that won the bond suit against the city, too, and should know just what the technicalities on which the city attempted to repudiate an honest debt, amounted to in the United States court, in that case.

This last street contract seems to be pretty much along the same line.
Accredited representatives of the city
advertised for bids for the work, selected the material, awarded the contract, the city passed the ordinances
it deemed necessary, and its own attorney drew up the contract.

So far as known, everything was satisfactory to the city. The contractors sublet part of the work, and the city allowed the subcontractors
to go to work and tear up the streets and proceed to carry out the provisions of a contract some are now trying to contend is illegal. Even after the belated opinion of the city solicitor was rendered that the contract is invalid, the city has virtually ac-knowledgeed that it recognizes the contract as valid by not raising a finger to prevent the alleged unlauiful tearing up of the public thoroughfares.

It seems to be the opinion of a number of good attorneys, that the city has already bound itself to the provisions of the contract, despite technicalities, and that schemes and efforts to stop the work and throw the matter into the courts will only result in useless delay and inconvenience to the public, and will go against the city in the end.

When the matter of material was before the boards sometime ago, it will be remembered that Paducah sent a committee composed of such men as Messrs. L. S. DuBois, C. C.
Covington and James Rudy to St.
Louis and they reported in favor of bitulithic streets. Nearly all the property owners in the residence districts do not want brick streets on account of the noise.

ONLY $250,000.
Is Asked By the Peruna Co. of Ladies' Home Journal.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Suit was begun in the superior court yesterday for $250,000 damages against the Curtis Publishing company, publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal. Sam
B. Hartman, of Columbus, proprietor of the Peruna Medicine company, is the plaintiff in the suit.

In the August issue of the Journal the declaration says that an advertisement of the Peruna company contained a testimonial from Congressman George H. White of North Carolina. In the next issue of the magazine the declaration alleges that the testimonial was repeated,
but with it was a signed denial from Congressman White that he had given the testimonial to the medicine company.

This denial, Hartman alleges, was secured through a misunderstanding,
as Congressman White, it is said in the declaration, signed the original testimonial.

HOLLAND CASE.
Comes Up Tomorrow Before Judge
Eli Brown.

Attorney J. M. Wortend returned today from Benton, where he is interested in some equity cases in the Marshall circuit court.

Everything is ready for the Holland murder case which is set for tomorrow. Attorney Wortend stated that the witnesses, of which there are a large number, were gathered
and the lawyers were prepared.

A motion has been made by the defense to transfer the case back to Callaway county, where the killing occurred. It will be argued tomorrow and both sides will fight hard. The case was transferred from Callaway
to Marshall county and if the motion prevails the case will be continued.

Judge Eli Brown, of Owensboro,
Ky., is special judge in the case.

OLD TIMBER

Was Dug Up On Kentucky Avenue—
51 Years Old.

While excavating for the storm water sewerage system on Kentucky avenue a few days ago two or three old steamboat gunwales were found about six feet in the ground in front of A. W. Greif's blacksmith shop, between Second and Third streets.

Mr. Greif, one of the oldest citizens in Paducah, says they were used years ago for crossings over gulleys and large hollows in that portion of Paducah. This particular hollow ran around from the river along Kentucky avenue and formed a semi-circle to Broadway. He says that the timber dug up had been used for crossings in 1854, which would make them 51 years old. The wood was in a good state of preservation. In fact it had rotted but little.

Old residents say that Paducah used to be full of ravines, gulleys and hollows in the business center.

Japanese Refuse to Remove Floating Mines in Norniloff Bay.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 27.—It was learned here today that during the meeting of Rear Admiral Jensen and Rear Admiral Shimamura, September 18, in Norniloff Bay, while arranging the naval armistice, the Japanese refused to discuss the question of floating mines and consequently it was impossible to proceed to the taking of the steps by which the mines of both the Japanese and Russians could be located, and their whereabouts made and finally removed.

Until one or all of these things are done the mines will remain a menace to neutral shipping in the field
or recent naval operations.

HALLUCINATIONS.

Girl Sufferers Who Claims She Was Beaten by Black Hand.

New York, Sept. 27.—The police and a physician today decided that Christine Grossman, the 15-year-old girl, who was found unconscious from alleged robbers attack in her home yesterday, was suffering only from mental hallucinations. Near the place where she was found a search revealed a demand for $900
written on the back of her mother's picture which hung with its face to the wall. A demand for $200 was written on the back of her own picture.

The police after comparing the handwriting on these pictures with that in Christine's school copy book, declared that the girl herself had written the demands.

Figures may not lie but figures of speech are often misleading.

Old Cannon Used in Church Bells. (Philadelphia Bulletin.)

"No silver is used in church bells," said the bell founder. "People claim there is, but I have assayed many an old bell that came here to be broken up, and never an ounce of silver did I find in one of them."

"For the best bells we use old cannon. They give us the purest amalgam we can get. The tinner bell I am making now is composed of twelve tons of old cannon from Spain. These two molds, the core and the cope, are what give the bell its sweetness. It is in their cut that the secret of bell founding lies. The core is the inner mold; it has the exact shape of the bell's inside. We fit the cope over the core, and into the space between the molten metal is run. When the metal has hardened and cooled the bell is finished, save for its clapper."

"To tone bells it is necessary to chip little pieces out of them. Our bell tuner is a good musician. He has composed a number of hymns."

Metropolis, Ill., Sept. 27.—Work on the sunken Key City by Rampendahl, Jr., & Co., has been temporarily suspended, owing to the rise in the river, caused by the local water from the Mississippi. Any remedy which gives such effective relief as Doan's Ointment deserves the endorsement of the public. REVOLVER CLUB

IS TO HOLD A BIG SHOOT NEXT MONDAY.

A Number of the Events Will Be Open to All Who Desire to Enter.

The Paducah Rifle and Revolver club will give a big shoot on Monday the second of October, and the prize shoots will be open to all who desire to enter and participate in the sport.

Since the club organized some expert marksmen in rifle and pistol shooting have developed and the club bids fair to out rival the Paducah Gun club, drawing about as many spectators as the Gun club generally draws.

There will be three big events Monday in the open shooting. There will be a 100, 150 and 300 yard event open to all. The monies will be divided into three purses. An entrance fee will of course be charged but the prizes are sufficiently large to insure a large entry list.

This will be the first shoot open to all given by the club and will doubtless be well patronized. Pistol and rifle shooting have held little interest for local sportsmen heretofore, but since the club was organized many people have become prominent in this class of sport.

TAGGART CHILDREN DON'T LIKE FATHER

They Declare They Would Not Live With Him.

Both Sides Are Anxiously Awaiting the Decree in the Famous Divorce Suit.

BOTH WANT THE CHILDREN.

Wooster, O., Sept. 27.—Since the close of the Taggart divorce trial the principals have been anxiously awaiting the decision of Judge Eason, not only as to which shall have the decree of divorce, but as to which of the parents shall be awarded the custody of the children, Culver and "Tiddles."

Mrs. Taggart said: "It is not the decree that I care so much about, but what I am fighting for is my boys. You have no idea what a comfort they are to me."

Major Taggart also seems eager to have the children. He says that he has things planned for them. A decree of divorce in his favor would mean a great deal more to him than to Mrs. Taggart.

The children returned today from Orrville, where their father had them for the last few days attending a fair. He put them on the train at Orrville and sent them home unaccompanied. Mrs. Taggart did not know on what train they would arrive, and, expecting their father to return with them, she was not at the train to meet them.

Asked how they would like to live in Orrville, Culver answered: "We used to live there, but I don't want to go back there any more."

Then Tiddles said: "I'd rather go to Highland Park" (meaning their old home near Chicago).

As to which of his parents he would like to live with Culver answered: "I won't go with father because I hate him."

"Why do you dislike your father?" "Because he wouldn't play with me and because he's always mad at something. He said that mother and Emma don't tell the truth."

"What will you do if the judge makes you go to your father?" was asked of the boy.

"I'll run off and if he catches me I'll kill myself."

Tiddles was asked what he would do if he had to go and live with his father. "I'll do like Culver did once—run away," he answered.

"What would you do if he caught you?" "I'd shoot him."

Culver told Tiddles to "come on" and together they started up the street to their mother's home.

"Red" is Back.

"Red" Bohannon, third baseman for the Paducah Indians the past season, arrived last night from Nashville and will "winter" with Land and Taylor in Old Paducah.

BOARD OF WORKS

WILL HOLD A MEETING THIS AFTERNOON AT 4 O'CLOCK.

Several Street Improvement Contracts Will Come Before the Body For Consideration.

The board of public works will meet in regular session this afternoon for the purpose of letting a contract for the regrading and graveling of Woodward street, and also to hear reports from the several different departments.

Secretary S. A. Fowler was called out of the city last night on business and will not be in attendance at the meeting, and there will be little other business transacted. The plans for the Woodward street improvement have been completed and are ready for the contractors. The plans for the improvement of Tennessee street from 12th to 13th are also ready, but this contract will not be let before next Wednesday, a week from today.

The plans for the improvement of Yeiser, Park, Meyers and Clements streets are not quite ready, but will be finished this week.

The board will not order the hand sweeper placed into service this week, but will probably start next Monday. The board has a great deal of routine work to look after and on account of the absence of Mr. Fowler, the main portion of the business, that which may be held over, will be deferred.

Miss H. E. Brooks, superintendent of press work, will speak of Miss Willard's belief in the power of the press and the persistence with which she utilized the press on every possible occasion.

Each superintendent is requested to limit her time to five minutes and every member is especially requested to honor the day by wearing her white ribbon.

All friends of the W. O. T. U. are most cordially invited.

Comes to Paducah.

The Daily Democrat of Seymour, Ind., says of a new resident of Paducah, and a former Hopkinsville citizen:

"Mr. H. D. Ferguson has accepted a position as foreman in the paint department of the Hardy Buggy Co., at Paducah, Ky., at a salary of $1,000 a year and left for that place this week to take charge of the work. Mr. Ferguson has held a similar position with the Ahlbrand Carriage Co. during the past nine months, where his work has given general satisfaction. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson who have resided in the Bush property at the corner of Jackson and Quensing streets have made many friends in the city who regret to see them leave. Mrs. Ferguson will spend a week or two with relatives at Hopkinsville, Ky., before going to Paducah to live."

Raffles, The Amateur Cracksman

By E. W. HORNUNG

LE PREMIER PAS

No. 3 of the Series

(Copyright, 1899, by Charles Scribner's Sons.)

THAT night he told me the story of his earliest crime. Not since the fateful morning of the idea of March, when he had just mentioned it as an unreported incident of a certain cricket tour, had I succeeded in getting a word out of Raffles on the subject. It was not for want of trying. He would shake his head and watch his cigarette smoke thoughtfully, a subtle look in his eyes, half cynical, half wistful, as though the decent, honest days that were no more had had their merita after all. Raffles would plan a fresh enormity or glory in the last with the unmitigated enthusiasm of the artist. It was impossible to imagine one throbbing with of compunction beneath those frankly egotistic and infectious transports. And yet the ghost of a dead remorse seemed still to visit him with the memory of his first felony, so that I had given the story up long before the night of our return from Milechester. Cricket, however, was in the air, and Raffles' cricket bag was back where he sometimes kept it, in the fender, with the remains of an orient label still adhering to the leather. My eyes had been on this label for some time, and I suppose his eyes had been on mine, for all at once he asked me if I still burned to hear that yarn.

"It's no use," I replied. "You won't spin it. I must imagine it for myself."

"How can you?"

"Oh, I begin to know your methods. You take it I went in with my eye open, as I do now, eh?"

"I can't imagine your doing other wise."

"My dear Bunny, it was the most unpremeditated thing I ever did in my life."

His chair wheeled back into the books as he sprang up with sudden energy. There was quite an indignant glimmer in his eyes.

"I can't believe that," said I, craftily. "Can't pay you such a poor compliment."

"Then you must be a fool!"

He broke off, stared hard at me and in a trice stood smiling in his own despite.

"Or a better knave than I thought you, Bunny, and by Jove, it's the knave! Well, I suppose I'm fairly drawn. I give you best, as they say out there. As a matter of fact, I've been thinking of the thing myself. Last night's racket reminds me of it in one or two respects. I tell you what, though, this is an occasion in any case, and I'm going to celebrate it by breaking the one good rule of my life. I'm going to have a second drink!"

The whisky tinkled, the siphon fizzed, the ice plopped home, and seated there in his pajamas, with the inevitable cigarette, Raffles told me the story that I had given up hoping to hear. The windows were wide open. The sounds of Piccadilly floated in at first. Long before he finished the last wheels had rattled, the last bawler was removed; we alone broke the quiet of the summer night.

"No, they do you very well, indeed. You pay for nothing but drinks, so to speak, but I'm afraid mine were of a comprehensive character. I had started in a hole. I ought really to have refused the invitation. Then we all went to the Melbourne cup, and I had the certain winner that didn't win, and that's not the only way you can play the fool in Melbourne. I wasn't the steady old stager I am now, Bunny. My analysis was confession in itself. But the others didn't know how hard up I was, and I swore they shouldn't. I tried the Jews, but they're extra fly out there. Then I thought of a kinsman of sorts, a second cousin of my father's, whom none of us knew anything about except that he was supposed to be in one or other of the colonies. If he was a rich man, well and good, I would work him; if not, there would be no harm done. I tried to get on his tracks, and, as luck would have it, I succeeded (or thought I had) at the very moment when I happened to have a few days to myself. I was cut over on the hand, just before the big Christmas match, and couldn't have played a ball if they had played me."

"The surgeon who fixed me up happened to ask me if I was any relation of Raffles of the National bank, and the pure luck of it almost took my breath away. A relation who was a high official in one of the banks, who would finance me on my mere name—could anything be better? I made up my mind that this Raffles was the man I wanted and was awfully sold to find next morning that he wasn't a high official at all, nor had the doctor so much as met him, but had merely read of him in connection with a small sensation at the suburban branch which my namesake managed. An armed robber had been rather pluckily beaten off, with a bullet in him, by this Raffles, and the sort of thing was so common out there that this was the first I heard of it! A suburban branch—My financier had faded into some excellent fellow with a bullet in him. I called his soul his own. Still, a manager was a manager, and I said I would soon see whether this was the relative I was looking for if he would be good enough to give me the name of that branch.

"I'll do more," says the doctor. "I'll get you the name of the branch he's been promoted to, for I think I hear they'd moved him up one already. And the next day he brought me the name of the township of Yea, some fifty miles north of Melbourne, but with the vagueness which characterized all his information he was unable to say whether I should find my relative there or not."

"He's a single man, and his initials are W. F.," said the doctor, who was certain enough of the immaterial points. "He left his old post several days ago, but it appears he's not due at the new one till the new year. No doubt he'll go before then to take things over and settle in. You might find him up there and you might not. If I were you I should write."

"That'll lose two days," said I, "and more if he isn't there. For I'd grown quite keen on this up country manager, and I felt that if I could get at him while the holidays were still on a little conviviality might help matters considerably."

"Then," said the doctor, "I should get a quiet horse and ride. You needn't use that hand."

"Can't I go by train?"

"You can and you can't. You would still have to ride. I suppose you're a horseman?"

"Yes."

"Then I should certainly ride all the way. It's a delightful road, through Whittlesea and over the Plenty ranges. It'll give you some idea of the bush. Mr. Raffles, and you'll see the source of the water supply of this city, sir. You'll see where every drop of it comes from, the pure Yea. I wish I had time to ride with you."

"But where can I get a horse?"

"The doctor thought for a moment."

"I've a mare of my own that's as fat as butter for want of work," said he. "It would be a charity to me to sit on her back for a hundred miles or so, and then I should know you'd have no temptation to use that hand."

"Thank you, mister," growled the man, a huge chap in a red checked shirt, with a beard like W. G. Grace, but the very devil of an expression.

"Been an accident?" said I, reining up.

"Yes," said he, scowling as though he defied me to ask any more.

"You're far too good," I protested. "You're A. J. Raffles," he said.

"And if ever there was a prettier compliment or a finer instance of even colonial hospitality I can only say, Bunny, that I never heard of either."

He sipped his whisky, threw away the stump of his cigarette and lit another before continuing.

"Well, I managed to write a line to W. F. with my own hand, which, as you will gather, was not very badly wounded—it was simply this, third finger that was split and in splints—and next morning the doctor packed me off on a bovine beast that would have done for an ambulance. Half the team came up to see me start; the rest were rather sick with me for not stopping to see the match out, as if I could help them to win by watching them. They little knew the game I'd got on myself, but still less did I know the game I was going to play."

"It was an interesting ride enough, especially after passing the place called Whittlesea, a real wild township on the lower slope of the ranges, where I recollect having a deadly meal of hot mutton and tea, with the thermometer at three figures in the shade. The first thirty miles or so was a good metal road, too good to go half round the world to ride on, but after Whittlesea it was a mere track over the ranges, a track I often couldn't see and left entirely to the mare. Now it dipped into gully and ran through a creek, and all the time the local color was inches thick—gum trees galore and parrots all colors of the rainbow. In one place a whole forest of gums had been ring barked and were just as though they had been painted white, without a leaf or a living thing for miles. And the first living thing I did meet was the sort to give you the creeps. It was a riderless horse coming full tilt through the bush, with the saddle twisted around and the stirrups ringing. Without thinking I had a shot at heading him with the doctor's mare and blocked him just enough to allow a man who came galloping after to do the rest."

"Thank you, mister," growled the man, a huge chap in a red checked shirt, with a beard like W. G. Grace, but the very devil of an expression.

"Been an accident?" said I, reining up.

"Yes," said he, scowling as though he defied me to ask any more.

GOOD PROSPECTS

FOR THE PADUCAH HORSE SHOW
NEXT MONTH.

All the Committees are to hold a Meeting Next Thursday Night.

All committees for the Horse Show will meet Thursday night at the headquarters of the Commercial club on South Fourth street.

The managers are receiving much encouragement from out-of-town cities. Letters are coming in daily stating that horses will be entered. From the prospects the amusement will be a grand success.

Mr. Ben Welle, one of the promoters, says that the people should subscribe liberally toward this attraction as it will be a great advertisement for Paducah, bring a great deal of money here, and afford the people an opportunity to witness something they have never before seen.

The two local bands, Deal's and Dean's, will be contracted for to furnish the music. The bands will play all day on the streets in the business section. There will not be a dull moment down town during the three days of the horse show.

Theatrical Notes

The stage of the river this morning was 12.9 on the gauge, a fall of 1.5. The Warren left at 8 a. m. for Cairo.

The Clyde leaves at 5 p. clock this afternoon for Waterloo, Ala.

The Joe Fowler is today's Evansville packet.

The Wash Honshell arrived from Louisville this morning with a tow of coal for the Pittsburg Coal Company and left this afternoon for Cairo.

The Elizabeth Archibald was over from Brookport today.

The Woolfolk is due from Memphis, with empties for the West Kentucky Coal company. The low water is delaying her.

The Lydia will probably be up from Joppa today with empties en route to the Tennessee river for ties.

Capt. Richard Willett, of New Albany, Ind., was here yesterday on business connected with his boat, the Nellie Willett, which he will probably place in the Tennessee river to do towing.

The Dick Fowler was let off the marine ways today and Monday she will resume her trips in the Cairo trade, taking the place of the Warren, which will be placed in the Evansville trade to relieve the Joe Fowler. The latter will go on the ways.

The backwater from the Mississippi river extended as far up the Ohio river as Cowper's, three miles above Smithland, on the late rise, according to local river men. They say this is probably as far as it ever got.

The rapid decline here is the fall of the backwater. Steamboat men anticipate a good stage for several weeks, however.

The Harth will likely be here from Caseyville this afternoon with a tow of coal for the West Kentucky Coal company.

A Washington, D. C., dispatch says: Solicitor Edwin W. Sims, of the department of commerce and labor has written an opinion for Supervisor Inspector-General Uhler of the United States steamboat inspection service, declaring that vessels plying on the Wabash river are subject to federal inspection laws. The broad question that the Wabash is a navigable river is determined also. The case arose over a clash between Federal and Indiana authorities concerning the jurisdiction of the United States over the steamer Lafayette.

The United States inspectors gave the Lafayette a license to tow barges, while the state authorities extended the privilege of carrying 200, or 300 passengers. The state inspectors ruled that the Wabash has not been navigable since 1874, but Mr. Sims holds that it has been navigable since 1872, and quotes United States Supreme Court in a decision that "a river navigable in fact is navigable in law." It is also pointed out that the boats ply on the Wabash for a distance of 340 miles and that since 1872 the United States has expended $719,000 in improving the river for navigation.

The cutting out of the bars and shallow places between this city, Paducah and Cairo, means much to the business interests of the lower Ohio Valley. The improvements of the channels at the shallow places enabling steamboats to run uninterruptedly during the low water season will prevent delays and permit the pack ets to make their regular trips conveying freight and passengers regularly, thus causing river traffic to move without delays and keeping the wheels of marine commerce and trade in almost perpetual motion. The work of dredging the lower Ohio river should begin soon as possible and be continued until there is not a bar or silt place in the river between here and Cairo to detain even the lightest draught boat and cause any delay to packets in making their regular trips.—Courier-Journal.

At his beautiful home on the hill overlooking the Ohio river at Beaver, Capt. John F. Dravo, well known from the headwaters of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers to New Orleans, is in a feeble condition. His friends and family are alarmed over his condition. He is confined to his bed most of the time and is unable to leave his room. He has not been at his Pittsburgh office in the Coal Exchange, of which he is president, for several weeks.—Courier-Journal.

Capt. Ed. Howard has built many fine business boats in his time, but it is an acknowledged fact that he never built a better all-round business boat than the beautiful side-wheel steamer Indiana, belonging to the Louisville and Cincinnati Packet company. She is strong and well built, has a graceful model, is of very light draught, is light on fuel, runs well and is in every sense of the word a perfect steamboat.

The famous Lee Line boats will resume their trips in the Cincinnati, Louisville and Memphis trade during the early fall and winter season. The Peters Lee and Rees Lee with one other equally as good will be the boats. This will give the trade three boats every week.

Abscesses.
Abscesses, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Col.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

W. C. T. U. STATE CONVENTION.

Will Be Held in the Methodist Church at London September 29 to October 3.

London, Sept. 27.—The W. C. T. U. state convention will be held here from September 29 to October 3, and great preparations are being made for occasion. The local union, of which Mrs. H. C. Thompson is president, Mrs. J. H. Jackson, secretary and Mrs. Mary Crenshaw treasurer, is sparing no trouble making arrangements for taking care of the delegates and visitors who will attend from all over the state. The convention will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church, South, a spacious building on Sublimity street, and has a large seating capacity.

There will be a diamond oratorical contest on Saturday evening, in which there will be several contestants from various parts of the state. None will be allowed to enter this contest except those who have won W. C. T. U. gold medals heretofore. This will be the first diamond oratorical contest ever given by the state W. C. T. U. in Kentucky.

There will be special services each evening at 7 o'clock, and the Rev. William Scanlin, of the Presbyterian church, of Philadelphia, will lecture Sunday morning and in the afternoon. Mrs. Susan Fessenden, of Boston, Mass., will speak on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. There will also be morning and afternoon meetings each day.

THE WATCH CONTEST CLOSING TONIGHT

Vote Will be Announced at 10 O'clock or Shortly After.

Large Crowds Continue to Go to the Grounds and Enjoy the Many Attractions.

NUMBERS IN THE DRAWING

The Paducah Traveling Men's Carnival association has more than made good its promise to give Paducahans a good, clean, moral carnival and "the ball is rolling and with every revolution gains more momentum."

A reporter sat near the entrance of the carnival inside the enclosure last night, the second night of the carnival, and watched the endless, incessant stream of humanity which poured into the carnival grounds.

The special acts advertised have all been pulled off with clock-like regularity, and not a disappointment has been bulletined since the Parker Co. started its carnival to going.

The watch contest for the carnival closes this evening, and the result will be known about 10 p. m. The vote after the count last night was:

Miss Mae V. Patterson	2,031
Miss Pearl Griffith	1,879
Miss Lillie Mae Winstead	925
Miss T. A. Browne	822
Miss Louise Campbell	738
Miss Frances T. Herndon	741
Miss Monima Hopkins	736
Miss Hattie Terrell	735
Miss Linnie Beadies	735
Miss Irene Bauner	734
Miss Carrie Blythe	729
Miss Elizabeth Sinnott	729

Last night the actual attendance at the carnival was 3,500 and every one was pleased with the attractions. The special free features are high above the average and the constantly increasing attendance is very flattering to the carnival promoters.

Mrs. W. E. M. Glover 809 Broadway, held ticket 159 which won first ton of coal given away Monday night.

The drawing for suit given away last night was:

No. 512, good until 11 p. m. to-night.

616, good until 11 p. m. tomorrow night.

709, good until 11 p. m. Friday night.

Ticket No. 709 has been handed in but will not get the suit unless the other numbers fail to show up in the time specified.

Tonight will end the watch contest. Results announced every fifteen minutes from 7:30 to 9.

From 9 until 10 silent vote.

PROMINENT MAN.

Custom Officers Nab Citizen of Seattle and Charge Him With Embezzling.

Seattle, Sept. 27.—George Berger, local superintendent of the Pullman Palace Car company, was arrested this afternoon by custom officers on a charge of smuggling.

With him was taken F. B. Stevens and wife. The customs men caught the trio at the depot as Berger was carrying a valise to the train for Mrs. Stevens. The valise contained thirty pounds of opium. Berger denies his guilt, saying he is a victim of circumstances.

HIGHER THINGS SHOULD BE SOUGHT

John D. Rockefeller Addresses His Fellow Citizens.

Hundred of Them Express Their Esteem for the Millionaire Oil Magnate at His Home.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S REMARKS

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Several hundred representative men of Cleveland called upon John D. Rockefeller at his home in Forest Hill yesterday afternoon and through Andrew Squire, a prominent attorney, and L. E. Holden, proprietor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, expressed to Mr. Rockefeller their esteem for him as a citizen and as a great business man.

Rockefeller made a brief address in response to the greetings. His remarks were almost entirely reminiscent of his residence in Cleveland and of the growth of the city.

Speaking especially to the younger men present he said there is something more to life than mere money getting.

"Turn your thoughts upon higher things of life. Be of service to humanity. Turn your thoughts into channels of usefulness; look forward to determination that something useful shall come out of your success. Let your question be 'What shall be the fruitage of my career? Shall it be endowment of hospitals, churches, schools, asylums?' Do everything you can for the betterment of your fellow man and in doing this you will enjoy life the better."

ENGINEER HURT.

Mr. J. G. Beeler Has Hand Mashed—Brakeman Also Injured.

Engineer J. G. Beeler, of the Louisville division of the I. C., met with a painful accident at Louisville yesterday.

He was working with his engine at the cinder pit when he got his hand caught in the machinery and badly mashed. He was brought to Paducah and placed in the local I. C. hospital for treatment.

J. D. White, colored, a brakeman on the Louisville division of the I. C., was injured yesterday afternoon at Cumberland river bridge.

He was standing on top of a freight car when his head struck a part of the work overhead, inflicting a painful, but not serious, scalp wound. He was brought here and placed in the local I. C. hospital.

IRATE FATHER

LOCKED HIS DAUGHTER IN THE SMOKEHOUSE.

Her Husband Came, However, and She Decided to Go With Him and Did.

West Newton, Pa., Sept. 27.—"What are you doing around here?" thundered John Williams, a wealthy farmer near here, when he saw Geo. Keck, formerly one of his hands, drive up to his gate yesterday afternoon.

"I've come for my wife," said Keck. "Your what? You haven't any wife around here," said the farmer. "Oh yes I have, said Keck. 'Your Katie is my wife and I've come to take her with me.'"

Katie, the twenty year old daughter of the farmer, and the belle of the neighborhood, recently returned from school, stepped forward and admitted that she and Keck had slipped away from the parental home three months ago and been married.

Williams rushed to the corn crib and took down the old family shotgun. He blazed away and there was a scream from Katie. Some of the shot struck her right arm. Covering Keck with the remaining barrel, Williams locked Katie in the smokehouse and her mother was with her. Williams was soon overpowered and the women set free. Katie said she would accompany her husband and her mother decided that where Katie went she would also go.

The party drove away leaving Williams in a rage. He threatens to disown both his daughter and his wife. Keck is twice as old as Katie and has always been a poor farm hand. His bride was to be sole heir to her father's big fortune.

SHOWED DEVOTION.

For Husband by Fighting Police to Save Him From Arrest After He Had Fatally Shot Her.

Manitowoc, Wis., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Peter Bach was shot by her husband last night as a result of a quarrel. Four shots in all were fired, three of which took effect. The woman will die.

Mrs. Bach attempted to prevent the police from arresting her husband, her struggles ending only when she was so weak from loss of blood that she dropped from sheer exhaustion.

According to the police, Bach went home intoxicated and began abusing his wife. It is believed that she defended herself and that this enraged him so that he used his pistol.
